

GUI vs. Command-Line Folders

I grew up using the Graphic User Interface (GUI), so it was far more comfortable for me when creating new folders and files. I took an Intro to Web Design course over the summer though, so the format of the Command-Line Folders wasn't completely foreign to me. However, I did find it took me a lot longer since I am unfamiliar with the codes themselves. When it comes to creating folders and files on my computer, I believe I will keep using the GUI. But, I do enjoy coding in GitHub.
